

NILES SCREAM PARK : HOODED
ASSUMPTION OF RISK AND RELEASE FROM LIABILITY

The Niles Scream Park built the Hooded attraction because patrons wanted a more intense experience. Participating in such an attraction carries inherent risks. You will be walking through an unknown environment in the dark. You will not be able to see anything. You will be alone.

To keep the risks to a minimum, you must follow some rules: You must keep your hand on the rope at all times. If you let go of the rope for any reason, stop immediately, raise one hand and ask for help to get back to the rope. Do not remove your hood. Do not try to find your way back by yourself. And of course, you must obey all instructions given by the attraction staff.

Inappropriate behavior will not be tolerated. This includes a physical or verbal assault on attraction staff or other patrons, loud or obnoxious behavior that may ruin the experience for others, using a light source or anything else deemed inappropriate by the attraction staff.

If you remove your hood at any time for any reason, you have forfeited your chance to go through the attraction and will be escorted out of the attraction immediately. This is true whether you remove your hood because of claustrophobia, feeling sick, feeling dizzy, being panicked or about to go stark raving mad. The point of the attraction is to scare you and this may cause any of those reactions. We will help you out of the attraction to an area where you may recover, but we will not issue a refund because we have done our job only too well.

In consideration for being permitted to enter this attractions and to participate in all aspects of it, and intending to be legally bound by this Release under the laws of the state of Michigan, I agree as follow:
